** SBA Advocacy is an independent government office responsible for advancing the views of small entities in regulatory policy across the federal government. We conduct roundtables to hear the experiences, challenges, and recommendations of small entities, and identify alternative approaches for policy development at federal regulatory agencies. Our roundtables are largely held online, to facilitate the attendance of stakeholders from a diverse range of backgrounds, industries, and geographic regions.

*** Roundtable meetings are open to all interested persons and are intended to facilitate an open and frank discussion about issues of interest to small business. These meetings are off the record and not intended for press purposes. Direct quotations of presenters or attendees may not be used without direct written approval of the person(s) making the statement. All press inquiries should be sent to chandler.baxter@sba.gov. Agendas and presentations are available to all. If you need accommodations for a disability to participate in the roundtable, please contact Bruce Lundegren for assistance.

Should you have any questions or require further information, please contact Assistant Chief Counsel Bruce Lundegren at bruce.lundegren@sba.gov.

Topics Summary

1. OSHA's Proposed Emergency Response Standard – Updated Public and Private Sector Perspectives. On February 5, 2024, OSHA proposed a new rule to update existing regulations for the safety and health of firefighters and other emergency responders. The comment period for the proposed rule is currently scheduled to close on Monday, July 22, 2024. OSHA's proposed rule would replace OSHA's existing Fire Brigades standard at 29 CFR 1910.156 (originally promulgated in 1980) and cover a broader set of present-day emergency responders beyond firefighters, including small private sector and not-for-profit emergency responders and public fire and rescue entities. The proposed rule would require written emergency response plans, hazard vulnerability assessments, training, personal protective equipment, medical screening and behavioral health services, and other requirements. The focus of the proposed rule is to provide workplace protections for workers who respond to emergencies as part of their regularly assigned duties and would expand the scope of protected workers to include emergency medical service and technical search and rescue. The proposed rule was the subject of a Small Business Advocacy Review panel (also known as a SBREFA panel) in 2021, which issued a final report providing its advice and recommendations to OSHA. A panel of representatives of various types of small entities that would be impacted by the proposed rule, who spoke at Advocacy's May 2024 roundtable, will provide an update of some of their ongoing concerns about the proposed rule and how the rule could impact their members, including:

- David C. Denniston is Chief of the Courtlandville (NY) Fire Department, Vice President of the Association of Fire Districts of the State of New York (AFDSNY), and an officer and active member of the National Volunteer Fire Council.
- Beeta Lashkari is an attorney with the OSHA Practice Group at Conn Maciel Carey LLP, who represents a broad coalition of businesses, including many small businesses, in a variety of sectors that would be directly and indirectly impacted by the proposed rule.
- Jason Jantzi is a Senior Risk Management Consultant for the Special Districts Association of Oregon, where he conducts risk management assessments and assists members with safety and liability issues. Jason is a former firefighter/EMT-Intermediate, Oregon OSHA Senior Safety Compliance Officer, founding member of the Oregon OSHA Fire Service Advisory Committee, and an active contributor to the Oregon Governor's Fire Service Policy Council.
- Scott Moore is the Owner of Moore EMS Consulting, LLC, and a Human Resources & Operations Consultant to the American Ambulance Association.

2. Open Discussion/Other Small Business Issues. A general discussion and open forum to discuss other current events and regulatory topics of specific interest to small business, including items on

OSHA and MSHA's Regulatory Agendas, draft proposed and final rules pending review at OMB, and other pending policy and regulatory actions.
